Freedom for Science, Science for Freedom

“...the free and responsible practice of science is fundamental to scientific advancement and human and environmental well-being. Such practice, in all its aspects, requires freedom of movement, association, expression and communication for scientists, as well as equitable access to data, information, and other resources for research. It requires responsibility at all levels to carry out and communicate scientific work with integrity, respect, fairness, trustworthiness, and transparency, recognizing its benefits and possible harms”.

(Principle of Universality freedom and responsibility of Science, International Council for Science)

The EuroScience Open Forum is the largest interdisciplinary science meeting in Europe focused on scientific research and innovation and it offers a unique biennial platform for interaction and debate for scientists, young researchers, business people, policy makers, science communicators and the general public. The town of Trieste will host the 9th edition of the European Science Open Forum, from the 5th to the 9th of July 2020.

One of the main goals of ESO2020 Trieste is a more permanent and efficient collaboration among research institutes, businesses, policy makers and society in central east Europe.

The Jožef Stefan Institute is pleased to host the presentation of ESO2020 Trieste, by:
